

Veterinarians near Hubbardston who see pet rats:

Hubbardston Vet Clinic

48 Gardner Road, Hubbardston, MA 01452

<http://www.hubbardstonvetclinic.com/about-us/>

Harriet Blanton, D.V.M.

One of her most memorable veterinary experiences has been setting the broken leg of a “sweet, pregnant rat.” Dr. Blanton’s hard work was well-rewarded when the rat’s ten-year-old owner brought her pet back to the hospital a month later — accompanied by a litter of eight, one of whom was named Harriet!

Worcester Cat Hospital & Bird Clinic

347 Park Ave. Worcester, MA

Looks fantastic, 30 min drive

<http://www.cathospitalandbirdclinic.com/>

Worcester Cat Hospital and Bird Clinic has over 20 years of experience in caring for your treasured pets. You will receive expert care for your cats, birds, rabbits, ferrets, exotic pets & reptiles.

Approximately fifty percent of the caseload at the Worcester Cat Hospital and Bird Clinic is comprised of exotic pets. As a long standing AAV member (the veterinary organization dedicated to Avian and exotic species) Dr. O’Leary has attended hundreds of hours of continuing education for avian and exotic animal medicine and surgery.

She is a published author for a Reptile Medicine text and is part of a veterinary network through VIN (Veterinary Information Network), where a panel of Specialists are able to share and discuss the problems and issues of Avian and Exotic species with fellow experts in the field.

Central Animal Hospital

1285 Central Street, Leominster, MA 01453

(P) 978-537-0239

30 min drive

Bridget Fitzpatrick, DVM

<http://www.centralanimalhospma.com/locations/massachusetts/leominster-central-animal-hospital/veterinarians>

Pocket Pet Care

<http://www.centralanimalhospma.com/locations/massachusetts/leominster-central-animal-hospital/our-services-pocket-pet-care>

Central Animal Hospital is happy to provide care for birds and pocket pets. We offer preventive care, nutritional advice, and general care recommendations for your small pets. Each species of pocket pet has its own specific needs for housing, diet, and care. We can help you take care of your small pet!

Please note the above information is from online sources, not from personal experience. This report is generated by Jasmine Bachrach for About Pet Rats.